Police have found a 73-year-old Newington woman who went missing Saturday.

New Haven Police found Carol Wood at 6:36 a.m. Sunday on Whalley Avenue, where she had walked to a gas station after her car ran out of fuel, state police said.

She was last seen at 5:15 p.m. Saturday when she drove off in a 2007 blue Toyota Camry to get some Chinese food from a local restaurant, police said Saturday.

Wood has a medical condition that may have caused her to become lost, police said.

the medical condition is called "old-itis", and perhaps she should not be driving anymore... thank God she didn't kill or injure herself or anyone else..... test elderly drivers!!!!!!

Give the older people the benefit of the doubt and don't use police for such petty stuff. There's no evidence for alsheimers for instance. If she was good enough to drive she's good enough to get herself back home or get help. Let police take care of rape robbery assault and drugs.
